

Clinical Supervisor School based position offering autonomy in the workplace and a supportive team network

Work in a role where you can make a difference; supporting a small number of students, alongside a dedicated team of professionals, with the added benefit of regular work hours and flexibility during term breaks.

About Woodbury:

Woodbury School for Autism offers outstanding educational services for students with autism spectrum disorder aged 3-12 years of age.

Our early intervention centre and primary school offer a high degree of structure, excellent staff to student ratio and the systematic use of behavioural teaching techniques to promote success and enjoyment in learning.

A large focus is placed on student wellbeing, ensuring that each student has the appropriate supports in place to foster development and growth.

Our vision is to provide a safe, caring and enjoyable educational environment for all students. Students are assigned to classrooms based on the level of support they need to be successful within their daily teaching activities. Goals related to education, self- management, communication, language and functional life skills are customised to meet each child's needs. A collaborative approach between teaching staff, ABA/ behaviour specialists and speech and language pathology is utilised to maximise student's progress.

As part of the Woodbury team you can look forward to a caring, supportive inclusive work environment.

Working as a specialist in a school affords you the opportunity to provide programming, intervention and support in the moment. With daily collaboration in the classroom, and the capacity to problem solve and make changes in the moment, staff and students benefit from the intensive support of their clinical supervisor promoting learning and progress across the school day.

The Clinical supervisor role offers a varied and interesting caseload which for the right candidate can provide the autonomy and independence to shape your work environment and promote personal success and growth.

The right applicant will be willing to learn and will seamlessly fit into an already established collaborative environment. The successful applicant will work closely our current speech pathologist and will have the unique opportunity to be involved in the continued development of Woodbury.

This position would be a good fit for individuals seeking to take the next step in their career.
